THE JUVENILE INSTRUCTOR, VOL. 24: JUNE 1, 1889 (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)

Forgotten Books, United States, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Juvenile Instructor, Vol. 24: June 1, 1889 Letters passed between them quite regularly and were a great source of comfort to both, and as a year and a half passed each began looking forward to the time soon to come when they should again meet and rejoice in each other's society. One evening as she was sitting alone with her little children, telling them that their papa would soon be home, a knock was made on the door and the Bishop and one of the neighbors entered. Her quick eye detected immediately something unusual; they seemed uneasy and disturbed, and as they seemed to hesitate telling their errand, she in a frightened, tremulous voice asked them what was the matter. The Bishop said: Sister, we have a telegram from Y [the place where her husband was laboring,] and it contains some serious news. Dear sister, remember we are all in the hands of God, His will be done. She sprang to her feet and with blanched cheeks and quivering lips, gasped: Oh, don't keep me in suspense, tell me the worst; is my husband She could not say the word - dead. Neither of the brethren could answer, their emotions choked their utterance, and she read her, answer in their countenances, and with a look of indescribable agony upon her face she fell with a low moan to the floor in a swoon.
