The different deposits did equally well. Hyperemia was no more effective than leaving nature alone. Though I have not seen very severe cases of cellulitis disappear without suppuration, I have seen milder cases behave in that way. There is no doubt in my mind that this therapy will cut short many an acute post-operative infection of an extremity. Here it is the only agent we can avail ourselves of. and I have repeatedly employed it to prevent suppuration. It is particularly useful after joint resections, and in thee it might even lie used rrophylactically to insure a good result. flood results following the use of this constriction hyperemia in acute inflammatory conditions have Ipi n reported by Habs, Korte, Sick. Stich. Danielsen, Bardenheuer, Heidenhain, Lexer. Heller, Haaster, Losser, Derlin, v. Brunn. and ot hers. I have used Bier s methods in considerably more than four hundred cases, of which over one hundred were acute inflammations, and I have usually seen excellent results. The great difficulty that we meet with is in deciding whether the results are due to the hyperemia therapy. I have frequently boon in doubt and have hesitated to ascribe all the /mut hoc developments to our therapeutic agent. I nfortunately, parallel cases and parallel observations cannot be studied. Although one has the impression that hyperemia almost regularly benefits, still it will require tune and much more experience to furnish positive and irrefutable proof. Cellulitis and lymphangitis cases seem to do...
