EPA Does Not Adequately Follow National Security Information Classification Standards (Paperback)

By U S Environmental Protection Agency

Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2014. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Our review of both originally and derivatively classified documents generated by three offices found that the EPA does not sufficiently follow national security information classification standards. Of the two originally classified documents we reviewed, portions of one needed different classification levels and the other contained numerical data that was incorrectly transferred from another document. The National Homeland Security Research Center in the Office of Research and Development agreed to correct the documents. We also noted that the approved classification guide and the three guides under review had narrow scopes, which limits their usefulness. The three proposed guides have been in the approval process for 12 months when it must take no more than 30 days. Additionally, the declassification process needs clarity since the one pending declassification request has also been in the approval process for almost a year when it should take no more than 60 days. None of the 19 derivatively classified documents we reviewed completely met the requirements of Executive Order 13526 and the implementing regulations. The derivative classifiers did not include some required information and did not...
